ELECTRICITY AS A MOTOR.

That electricity is the motor of the future cannot now be doubted, and it is developing with a degree of rapidity that is startling. It is now not only the accepted motor for street cars in cities and inland towns, but it is swiftly advancing in rural sections by connecting important points in the country by the rapid transit trolley now furnishes.

It is evident from the progress of the past year that our State will soon have a complete network of electric railways for local accommodation, and that they will eventually be so interwoven as to make continuous lines connecting all the great centers of population and business in the State. They need restrictions as to the use of public roads, but they are to become the popular method of transit and they should be generously aided rather than hindered by the laws.

It may be accepted as assured that the electric railways will soon parallel the steam lines from every city to suburban communities, but they will not be a serious encroachment upon the patronage of the steam lines. They will very largely multiply travel, and the electric lines will have an immense patronage chiefly created by the increased facilities for rapid and convenient transit.

The electric railway is now the method of transit that is in the closest touch with the people. It is the cheapest of all motors; it requires no grading of road-beds; it can climb the highest hills with ease and descend them with complete control of speed, and it goes into the by-way where the steam line can never penetrate. It is, in fact, the railway of the people, and as such it should be liberally encouraged. It will soon bring every rural community into close relations with the city, and thus open the most heart-some of rural lands into use for suburban homes.

Beyond the proper protection of the public highways, there is little need for laws restraining the construction, extension or connection of electric railway lines. They are not to be feared as monopolists, as rural lines can be cheaply constructed everywhere, and they are not to be feared as monopolists, as rural lines can be cheaply constructed everywhere, and they are not to be feared as monopolists, as rural lines can be cheaply constructed everywhere.

Delaware peach growers send out an unusual proclamation, to the effect that the crop promises to be very large and the fruit fine. This is the more remarkable, because the weather condition of early spring did not appear to be favorable to peaches. It is good news, however, that, if proper transportation facilities shall be provided, "every town within a thousand miles of Delaware can be supplied with good fruit at reasonable prices."

The Goodyear Vulcanite Company, at Morrisville, were compelled to close their works Monday on account of over two-thirds of their employees refusing to work until they received pay for services rendered four or five weeks since. Nearly 800 are thrown out of employment.

It has always been customary with the Chilton Paint Co. to use in their roof paints the same quality of oil and dryer as used in the Chilton Paints. We could never see the reason for putting a good paint on a house, and a poor paint on a roof or barn. Any paint bearing the name Chilton is made with pure linseed oil and a turpentine dryer. We wish we knew what "the old red school house" was painted with, where we went to school when a boy. Not Chilton by any means, for it was painted beyond the memory of man. If you want about the same effect, get shade number ten of the Chilton Roof Paint.

Chilton Manufacturing Co., Boston and New York.

Good Books to Read.

The Christian Union has obtained expressions of opinion from several well known writers, preachers, professors and editors as to the books yet unread which each has in mind for perusal at the first opportunity. It is rather interesting to get an idea of what some of those who may be regarded as representative Americans of literary taste are planning to read, and a singular fact about it is that the ten or a dozen consulted have chosen the same book in very few instances. Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale wants to start off with the ninth volume of "Adams' History of the United States," which he says is as interesting as "Jane Eyre." Mr. Joseph Gilder, the editor of The Critic, would begin with "The Emancipation of Epictetus" and end with "Huckleberry Finn." Mr. George W. Childs' taste runs mostly to American history and encyclopedias, and he digests as he reads. He has laid out enough to occupy his spare time for five years. May he live long enough to complete it! Mr. Brander Matthews' taste also runs to history, but he expresses a desire to study Balzac and Tolstoy. Mr. Albert Shaw of The Review of Reviews, whose literary taste is unquestionable, does not aspire to read much that is classical, but he is an admirer of Bourget, J. M. Barrie, Octave Thoreau and Marion Crawford. He is also trying to find time to read Dr. Abbott's "Evolution of Christianity," as also De Haas. As might be supposed, E. B. Andrews, LL. D., of Brown University is inclined to economic and religious subjects, but in his entire 10 selections there is not a single work of an American author. Eight of them are the productions of French and German writers. Among the books read, T. T. Munger, D. D., wants to read the "Cistercian and Hierarchy" and "Monte Cristo," and he will find them a pleasant diversion from his vocation of teaching liberal orthodoxy. Rev. Robert A. Holland, D. D., hopes to read a list of theological works with which the ordinary lay reader is unfamiliar.

Rather more entertaining and perhaps quite as instructive is the vote of the readers of The Critic as to the 10 books which they regard as the greatest yet produced in America or by Americans. The following is the result, the figures before each name indicating the number of votes received as to the merits of books and not of authors:

412 Emerson's essays.
406 Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter."
404 Longfellow's poems.
404 The Story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."
399 Dr. Holmes' "Autocrat."
397 Irving's "Satanstoe."
396 Lowell's poems.
396 Whitman's poems.
396 Wallace's "Ben-Hur."
396 Trollope's "The Dutch Republic."

Of course this is all largely a matter of opinion. It does not settle the question by any means. In fact, 90 out of 100 average readers would find the lists of books selected as those hoped to be read excessively dull. Likewise to place "The Scarlet Letter" near the top of the list of best books and leave out "Bancroft's History of the United States" altogether is of decidedly questionable taste. However, the matter may be useful to the younger generation of readers, to whom the selective process is an absolute necessity.

In spite of every class of society seems bound to crystallize into classes. In this country all are equal in the eye of the law—excepting, of course, Indians, the original Americans, and Chinese—but lines of social distinction are almost as closely drawn here as anywhere else. They even exist in labor organizations, as was frankly avowed not long ago by an eminent labor reformer.

The line that separates the whites and the blacks socially is stronger now than it ever was, notwithstanding the fact that the negro has been on the same political plane as his white brother for 80 years. Now the negro has decided to be exclusive himself, and members of the colored race have purchased a 100-acre tract on Long Island, where they may create and enjoy the pleasures of a summer resort without danger of intrusion on the part of white persons. The new resort is to be known as Douglas Park-by-the-Sea, and it is thought has already been mostly subscribed for, all the takers being of African blood.

"Tasso is a vapor, popularity an accident." Julian Hawthorne, who at last accounts was in Chicago, says that the new and cheap editions of his father's "Scarlet Letter" are bringing upon him a mighty flood of letters from people who "discover in this powerful if improbable story" the promise of "extraordinary work in the future." An editor of a Texas paper has offered Mr. Hawthorne $100 if he will contribute to that publication a novel of Texas life in the same lines. Mr. Hawthorne thinks he has done nothing to deserve such treatment.

Nature's Way and Man's Way.

There are some exceptions, to be sure, but it seems to be a rule of Nature to hedge about her most beautiful gifts with dangers and difficulties. Thus the most fertile soil in the United States, the rich Mississippi bottom lands, is annually subject to destructive floods. Even now the planters there are complaining of almost irreparable damage inflicted by the raging waters this year. But though they have often suffered in the same way before, these men have no notion of removing to safer sections of the country. It is so everywhere. Because the grape grows best on the slopes of Vesuvius, the Italian peasantry plant vineyards almost to the edge of its awful crater. The fact that pearls are not to be obtained unless men take their lives in their hands and dive in deep and shark infested waters does not prevent the women of the race from having the unilly globes for the adornment of their persons, and gold would be dug if it were twice as expensive as it now is to get it.

Belmonte Cottage, James Roberts, proprietor, No. 620 Atlantic avenue, above New Jersey, Atlantic City, N. J. Terms, from $8 to $12 per week. Transient Boarding. Open all the year.

The Lady Dentist.
Dr. Ella B. Shinn.
Formerly on Bath Street, has removed to No. 202 Ninth Street, over Dr. Purcell's Drug Store.

The increase in practice and lack of room has compelled me to take larger and more central accommodations. I wish to extend my hearty thanks to my patients and friends for the success I have had in the past year, and propose to do the same good work at reasonable prices.

Dr. J. D. Thomas, 213 Walnut Street, Philadelphia.
Makes a specialty of using nitrous oxide gas for the painless extraction of teeth. He has now reached the large number of 190,000 people to whom he has administered it.

Coughing Leads to Consumption.
Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once.

Are You Going to Travel?
If so you must be careful of your health, or your doctor's bills will cost you more than your traveling expenses. A bottle of Sulphur Bitters will protect you from all sickness incident to a change of climate.—Evening Telegram.

Took First Prize.
The State board of pharmacy recently analyzed twelve of the most popular medicines in order to see whether they were what they were recommended to be. The results were most interesting. One of the best of the lot, a gold medal, to Messrs. A. P. Ordway & Co., proprietors of the Sulphur Bitters, it being in their opinion the best and only strictly pure blood purifying medicine in the market.—Weekly Chemist.

Just the Thing.
This is an expression the traveling public generally use when they find something that is exactly what they want. This expression applies directly to the Wisconsin Central Lines, which is now admitted by all to be "The Route" from Chicago to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Ashland, Duluth and all points in the Northwest. Their double daily train service and fine equipment offers inducements which cannot be surpassed.

Wanamaker.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, June 13, 1893.
No, they're not all Silk—just half—the other half is Blouse Waists. Very likely they're better for that use than if silk worms furnished every fiber. Silk and Wool so perfectly put together that the goodness of each shows at the best. Handsome as they are, they'll seem handsomer when you know the price—$1 instead of $1.50. Seven styles, 39 inches.

Navy blue Serges are may be quickest steppers just now from the counters of Summery Woolen stuffs.

At 40c, a good 50c quality, 36 in.
At 50c, a good 60c quality, 36 in.
At 60c, a good 75c quality, 36 in.
At 75c, a good 85c quality, 46 in.
At 85c, a good $1.00 quality, 50 in.
At $1.00, a good $1.25 quality, 56 in.
At $1.25, a good $1.50 quality, 64 in.

Navy blue comes laughing to the front in that great camp of Hopsackings—those open-mesh beauties that divide favor with the Serges.

Dress Goods people say no such June bargains of Cottons and all the Summery stuffs were ever before offered.

Finest French Sateen, made this season, at 25c instead of 37 1/2c.

Lovely, cool Scotch Crepes that were 50 and 60c, now 25c.

Finest domestic printed Sateens, 15 from 20c.

20c Batists at 15c.

That's the news from counter to counter.

Just as welcome words from the Woolen stuffs—like the All-wool French Crepe at 50c; lately a quick seller at $1. Seventeen soft shades.

Or the 18c Challis, those Cotton-and-Wool beauties that have proved such favorites. Mostly cream grounds with heliotrope and Nile green tints.

Women's Outing Dresses. New shapes, new features, new elegancies almost every day. When a style becomes a bit passe we let the newer styles come in.

At the front of white Sail Cloth or navy blue Serge. The daintiest Outing Suit yet shown. After the Eton style, somewhat but with a broad flaring collar entirely different from anything yet shown.

Another newness is the London Cutaway Coat Suit.

Then, too, there are new combinations in Lawns, Ginghams and what not of the seasonable stuffs.

The assortment of Serge Eton Suits was never completer. $6, $8.50, $10, $12, and more.

Lady Craven Vests, white and colored, double-breasted variety.

That Trunk for Chicago. Have you thought of the grove in store for it? The kid-glove handling of the railroaders is only the start.

But as the occasion brings the man so it has brought the Trunk—a roomy, good-looking Trunk.

And warranted to stand the trip to Chicago and return.

Excelsior lock, 8-inch hinges, cover that won't give. Instead of the casters made to come off, heavy malleable iron bumpers made to stay. Length of Trunk 32 inches.

The price, $4.50.

The Trunk store is short of nothing of the kind that you'll need—traveling or packing away.

Common Sense Trunks are one of the novelties. Set one snug against the wall—the cover lifts without touching paper or plaster. One of the strongest and most convenient styles of Trunk made.

Window Screens of every tried and worthy sort—25c to $1.

We count the Lauderback Screens best of all—handsomest, most satisfactory of the adjustables.

Height. Length. Each. Dozen.
18 in. 27 to 32 in. 45c $4.50
21 in. 27 to 32 in. 50c $5.00
24 in. 31 to 36 in. 55c $5.50
27 in. 31 to 36 in. 60c $6.00
30 in. 31 to 36 in. 65c $6.50
33 in. 31 to 36 in. 70c $7.00
36 in. 36 to 40 in. 80c $8.00
39 in. 36 to 40 in. 85c $8.50
42 in. 36 to 40 in. 90c $9.00
45 in. 36 to 40 in. 95c $9.50

If Cedar Chests cost no more than pine, no woman would want any other kind to pack away clothes in. Here's a carload so close to pine price that—well, the maker is the one that loses sleep.

21x21x36 in. at $6.50 each.
25x25x42 in. at $7.50 each.

Zip-p, see how that Bicycle fairly flies!

Note the name—Atalanta likely as not. There isn't a lighter-footed wheel on the market, nor a better. And the fun of it is that the Atalanta is $120 instead of $150!

Bicycles of any other make you choose—$18 to $150. A few 1892 Safeties at very little prices.
